

Sovietskaya Hotel in St. Petersburg

The Sovietskaya Hotel - home of vysotka St. Petersburg. The Sovietskaya was erected in 1965 and is comprised of three buildings. Built in Leningrad, the hotel has experienced many different times - the state has ceased to be a Soviet, and the city returned to the historic name. Sovietskaya Hotel still remains one of the most popular hotels in St. Petersburg.

Sovietskaya Hotel in St. Petersburg (renamed Azimuth-Hotel in 2005) is ready to provide all clients with comfortable living conditions and a high level of service. Sovietskaya Hotel invites guests to St. Petersburg for an excellent opportunity to rest and explore the most European city in Russia. The Sovietskaya hotel rooms in St. Petersburg are cozy and peaceful with adequate interior space; every effort is made to meet all the guests' needs.

Hotel Rooms are divided into several categories, but regardless of that, each of the rooms come with a variety of amenities - telephone, TV, personal care products, hair dryer.

Breakfast for hotel guests is from 7:00am to 11:00am. Guests may choose any dish in any quantity. Breakfast includes sliced cheese and meats, fresh vegetables, homemade meats, fried eggs or omelets, desserts, muesli, and house drinks.

Apart from the large halls for celebrations there are two restaurants, which are decorated traditionally. One serves traditional Italian cuisine, and the other – traditional Pivopitiya. The restaurant offers a fragrant Vinopyatstva pizza and pasta.

